2018 in Review

Taxes Today by Towerpoint Wealth – 12.31.2018

Needless to say, 2018 has been one of the more eventful years for the accounting profession, not just tax, in recent history.

For this edition of Taxes Today, I would like to look back on some of the more notable events in the world of accounting in 2018...

- New blood at the PCAOB: The PCAOB swore in a new chairman, William Duhnke, and also installed new board members.
- Out on April 2017: Many critical IRS systems crashed for much of "Tax Day."
- The Wayfair Decision: The Supreme Court ruled 5-4 to overturn 1992's Quil decision and allow states to require out-of-state retailers to collect sales tax.
- Formulating new forms: The IRS released drafts of a new Form 1040 that will replace the current 1040, 1040A, and 1040EZ.
- A new IRS commissioner: Chuck Rettig was installed as IRS commissioner.
- Three of the Big Four: Kelly Greir was positioned at the helm of EY, meaning that three of the Big Four firms in the U.S. are now led by women. (This announcement came first in late 2017)
- A new direction for audit: The American Institute of CPAs launched its OnPoint PCR tool, aimed at improving prep, com, and review engagements.
- Big deals in M&A: 2018 saw an unusual number of combinations between Top 100 Firms, including Plante Moran combining with EKS&H, CliftonLarsonAllen with Schenck, Marcum with Raffa, and Baker Tilly Virchow Krause with RGL Forensics.
- Major Departures: A number of high-profile accounting figures announced departures, including Intuit president Brad Smith.

Please see the article, "The top tax and accounting stories of 2018," for this complete list.

Also in review of 2018, the Treasury Inspector General for Tax Administration released a report this month on the results of this past filing season. Some challenges noted in this well-written summary are the tax credits stemming from the Affordable Care Act, from education, and from wildfires and other natural disasters. In addition, identity theft continues to be an issue for the IRS.

Finally, one area clients will rely on the expertise of financial professionals, CPAs/tax advisors, and attorneys is navigating new divorce tax changes taking effect in 2019 as follows:

- Alimony paid will no longer be tax-deductible and alimony received will no longer be taxable income.
- Children won't be the tax deduction they used to be.
- People who are already divorced will be grandfathered in, but if their agreements are modified in 2019 or beyond, they could be subject to the new rules, too.
- Pre- and post-nuptial agreements may be affected by the tax changes.

For more information, read the article, "How the tax laws for divorce will turn upside down in 2019."
